Brown County Communities Receive over $500,000 in Additional Stadium Tax Returns

Audits, interest and penalties result in follow-up distributions to communities

Madison- Today, State Representative David Steffen (R-Howard) released details of additional financial returns to Brown County and its communities from the Lambeau Stadium sales tax. During its follow-up review of sales tax information, the Wisconsin Department of Revenue determined that an additional $534,185 will be distributed to Brown County and its political subdivisions. This distribution is the result of additional revenue collected through audits, penalties, and interest.

"These additional returns to Brown County and its communities are significant and reflect my dedication to returning every penny of excess sales tax to the hardworking taxpayers of Brown County. I have been encouraged by the strong local leadership in handling these returns and am confident this responsible leadership will continue with any additional future returns," said Rep. Steffen.

Rep. Steffen authored legislation to return over $17 million to Brown County and its municipalities, which was collected through the 0.5% Lambeau Stadium sales tax. Initial returns were distributed at the end of 2015, and the legislation requires an annual review of sales tax information in order to return any additional future excess funds. These additional returns will be distributed in the same fashion as the initial return, with 25% of the total distribution being allocated to Brown County, and the remaining revenue distributed to each municipality based upon population. A complete breakdown of the distribution is listed.

Brown County and its municipalities are expected to receive their distributions by the close of this week.
